This is an example of a religious leader invoking the authority of God to justify slavery, and also, an independence movement to Thanksgiving Sermon (1860) the institution. It is not necessary here to inquire whether this is precisely the Thanksgiving Sermon (1860) relation in which the hewer of wood and drawer of water can stand to his employer; although this proposition may perhaps be successfully sustained by those who choose to defend it. In all this I speak for the North no less than for the South; for upon our united and determined resistance at this moment depends the salvation of the whole country—in saving ourselves we shall save the North from the ruin she is madly drawing down upon her own head.
